Dear Sirs,

Cultural Strategy 2005

I refer to an article in the latest Scottish Local History Journal.

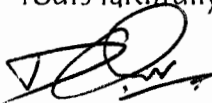

Most relevant to Friends of Kirriemuir Gateway to the Glens Museum, the Cultural Commission is "to examine museums and heritage, libraries and archives".

I personally agree that not was much attention is given to the study of local history as a cultural activity here and now, nor to historical or genealogical research as part of life long learning.

I believe it is important to ensure this does not continue. And to quote the article "Those of us concerned at a personal and a community level with Local History, archives and the study of Scotland's past in the widest sense need let you know our thoughts

As the article says "You can get more information from the Cultural Commission and as I should like to look at the remit you've been set and an outline of your initial thoughts" Please send me the relevant details.

Yours faithfully,

David G. Orr

Secretary of the Friends of Kirriemuir Gateway to the Glens Museum
